THE SYMPOSIUM

This symposium provides a unique forum for discussion and collaboration among Asian-Pacific scientists from a multitude of disciplines. Focusing on state-of-the-art methodology and recent NMR spectroscopy application, the symposium boasts an unparalleled scientific opportunity. Young scientists are particularly encouraged to participate.

THE CITY

The 1st Asia Pacific NMR Symposium will be held at Osanbashi Hall, Yokohama. Yokohama is situated on a peninsula facing the western coast of Tokyo Bay, a mere 30 kilometers (18.6 miles) from Tokyo. Built on a rich culture of entrepreneurship, Yokohama has become an internationally renowned city and Japan's largest international trading port. THE PROGRAM

This year's program will consist of keynote and plenary lectures beginning the evening of November 9th, as well as contributed papers in both parallel and poster sessions. A mini symposium on technical developments within NMR spectroscopy will be held during the conference. A detailed program will be provided on the conference home page.

SATELLITE MEETING

The 44th Annual NMR Meeting of the Japanese NMR Society will be held on November 8 and 9th prior to the 1st Asia-Pacific NMR Symposium. Participants of the Asia-Pacific symposium are encouraged to participate the annual NMR meeting without any additional payments.
